The Fault in Our Stars,
by John Green

The Fault in Our Stars, by John Green, is about Hazel Grace, a surviving cancer patient. Hazel goes to a support group, where she meets the hot, one-legged Augustus Waters.

I really liked how John Green describes his character and how unexpected his plot twists were. If you're going to read The Fault in Our Stars, caution!!! The book contains very sad things, and there's a 95% chance that you'll cry.

You might like this book if you've read any other John Green books. For example: Paper Towns. You should really go check out this book!

Christy, by Catherine Marshall

Christy Huddleston goes to a backward mission in Tennessee to teach the children. I liked how she really cared for everyone, but disliked how you don't know who she ends up marrying. Christy is a TV show and a movie. Someone who likes Little House on the Prairie and Anne of Green Gables will enjoy Christy.
