Juvenile Court Services Update

Sylvia Clement

- Raise the Age is coming and the Chief Court Counselor, Sylvia Clement, is being proactive preparing safety plans and trying to secure a space when kids come into custody other than the Court Counselors office.
- There are two new court counselors that are in training.
- There is one vacancy for a field specialist.
- MOA was signed for the Madison Detention Center.
- There is a Raise the Age Law Enforcement Training October 2nd at AB Tech from 1pm – 5pm for the Western Region.
- Sylvia’s staff went out and visited the JCPC funded program HorsePower to see firsthand the incredible work they are doing for our youth.

NCDPS Community Programs Update

Regina Arrowood

- The State budget hasn’t passed yet. There are some anticipated increases in the JCPC funding for the next 2 yrs. More information will be coming over the next month.
- The Area Consultant completes a comprehensive monitoring within the first year of funding and every three years thereafter. The first year can be a learning curve for most new programs in terms of required policies and procedures and documentation.
- Monitoring report on Love Notes. Linda Grainey did the 1st year monitoring for the Love Notes Program prior to her retirement. The program did an amazing job in preparing for the monitoring site visit. Linda noted that it was one of the best 1st year programs that she has ever seen. Some minor improvements needed in the policies and procedures manual and required documentation.

Trinity Place

Amy Hobson

Trinity Place is a community based runaway and homeless shelter in Asheville. They utilize an evidence based therapeutic model and are an alternative to placement in a detention center. The placement is available for up to 21 days. Serving ages 7-17 years old. They are co-ed with a capacity of 6 youth at one time.
