COMMUNITY RESOURCE VOLUNTEERS

Working with children, families, social workers and others to create stability for children in foster care.

Children have no control over the decisions made for them by adults. Yet these decisions have significant impacts on their lives.

Community Resource Volunteers can help give children a voice in decisions that affect their future.

A COMMUNITY RESOURCE VOLUNTEER

is needed to participate in meetings that last approximately two hours. Volunteers are able to sign up each month for the meetings they are able to cover based on their availability. These meetings involve Social workers, Guardians ad Litem, families, foster parents and foster children. Permanency options, placement decisions, well-being issues, and safety planning are discussed in these meetings.
