The Public Safety Assessment (PSA) is an actuarial tool that uses factors to predict pretrial success or failure. The PSA, along with other information, can be used to help inform release decisions. The PSA does not make release decisions. For more information about the PSA, see Advance Pretrial Policy & Research.

Concurrency refers to the rate at which the recommendation provided by the release matrix aligns with the release decision made by the judicial official. It is important to note the PSA and release matrix are just two of multiple sources of information a judicial official can use when making a release decision. Neither the PSA nor release matrix directs a judicial official as to if and under what conditions a person should be released. Therefore, the concurrency rate will never be 100%.

On each supervision assignment, there is a judicial override flag that indicates a deviation from the release matrix recommendation. The concurrency rate is calculated by dividing the number of judicial overrides with the number of supervisions opened. Only supervisions with a PSA scores are used in this calculation.

Community Supervision: September Assignments

147 Supervisions Opened

132 Supervisions Closed

A person can be assigned to pretrial supervision by a district or superior court judge. They can be assigned to supervision on all or just select pending charges. For the purposes of this dashboard, a supervision is counted as one supervision regardless of the number of charges the person has been assigned to supervision for. For example, if a person has six pending charges in Buncombe County, and they have been assigned to supervision on four of those charges, that is counted as one supervision.

Closed - Technical Only

Technical Violation Rate
9.6% ✓
Goal: 14.8%

When a supervision is closed, it is flagged as successful or unsuccessful. Unsuccessful supervisions are closed due to the following reasons: a new charge occurs, an individual fails to appear in court, an individual violates release conditions set forth by a judge (technical violation), or some combination thereof. A closed supervision that is unsuccessful is counted as a technical violation if "technical violation" is the only disposition reason identified on the supervision. Pretrial Services has set a goal of no more than 14.8% of cases closed be due only to a technical violation. Technical Violation Rate does not include supervisions that were never released from custody.
